

Doll House

She heard the conversations in her home.
And watched the grownups moving in and out.
Often they spoke of others not in sight.
Then they would laugh at those they talked about.

And daily as she played upon the floor
Moving her little people here and there,
She would repeat the things that she had heard
Acting them out precisely with a flair.